

Cookies

We use cookies and similar tools across our websites to improve their performance and enhance your user experience.

What are cookies?

Cookies are small text files which a website may put on your computer or mobile device when you first visit a site or page. The cookie will help the website, or another website, to recognise your device the next time you visit; help you dealing with fill-out forms faster and also recommend specific content based on your previous website behaviour. We use the term “cookies” in this policy to refer to all files that collect information in this way.

Certain cookies contain personal information, but most cookies won't collect information that identifies you, and will instead collect more general information such as how users arrive at and use our websites, or a user's general location.

What cookies does the quiz.atomforyou.com website (including all language versions) use?

Overall, our cookies serve three different functions:

Operational cookies

These cookies are used to analyse how you use our website in order to monitor its performance. This allows us to provide reliable access to the most popular pages.

Functional cookies

These cookies are used to remember user preferences. For example, they save you time filling out various forms by remembering the options you have selected as preferences.

Other cookies

Certain cookies are used to collect statistics, monitor traffic on the site, improve the functionality of the site, and detect bot activity. We collect statistics through Yandex.Metrics and Google Analytics.

More information

Advertisers sometimes use cookies to show users ads based on their preferences. If you are a resident of the European Union and would like to learn more about how cookies are used for such purposes or choose to opt out of them, please visit www.youronlinechoices.eu. Please be aware that if you choose to disable the use of cookies, you may find that some areas of the sites do not work the way they supposed to
